realism - and moved towards reality, in a quest for products capable of enhancing the style and quality of people's lives. "Design for life" is the message of several slogans, suggesting that the new trend is to put the individual at the centre of the design process, and to seek out solutions which are creative but not at the expense of wellbeing and healthy living. So substance, not form, is the order of the day. And within the framework of the substance, attention to environmental considerations is more than just a fashion, it is a strong new concept which underpins everything: materials are "green", technologies are "eco-sustainable" and production processes are geared towards saving and recovering energy. Ceramic manufacturers are
